The advertisement for Academy Schools features a logo on the left with three stylized figures holding hands above an open book. The text "Academy SCHOOLS" is prominently displayed. To the right, it says "Now offering Pre-K through 12". Below the logo, a tagline reads "Providing each child with the opportunity to grow in all aspects of learning". A section titled "Can You Imagine ..." contains a paragraph: "Imagine a school where each student benefits from an individualized curriculum. Both gifted children and those not able to be successful in a standardized classroom environment thrive at Academy Schools. Our goal is to successfully prepare each student for a lifetime of achievement." On the right side of the ad is a photograph of a young child with blonde hair sitting at a steering wheel, looking out a window.

Children's Academy (CA) is an independent private school teaching kindergarten through eighth grade. We are located in Kent and are non-profit and non-sectarian.

CA is dedicated to the education of the whole child in a challenging yet supportive environment. We provide our students with a strong academic foundation and foster the active use of their knowledge and skills. Our ultimate goal is to instill a life-long passion for learning enabling our students to contribute their wisdom, compassion and leadership in a rapidly changing world.

Our school is a small community; no class has more than ten students. As one of our students said, "This is more like a family than a school." We pride ourselves on the fact that our students love to come to school and love learning. The people — the children, the families, and the teachers — are what make our school so special!
